IDEAS.

Cast your first vote for—what you really think will most benefit the country.

Unusually good crops this year. Remember we shall not always be so prosperous, and use your extra income for something that will really put you ahead.

The Southern states that allow an ignorant man to vote just because he is white are putting a premium on white ignorance. The Negro has a motive for learning, and the white man has none. In twenty years the Negro will be ahead.

Gobbelism is outrage through the forms of Law.

Fall Term of Berea College opens Wednesday, Sept. 12.

God Will Sprinkle Sunshine.

If you should see a fellow man with troubles and suffering, and know he hasn't a friend in all the world, then stop him on the back and holler "Howdy doo!" And if his hand so warm he'll know he has a friend to him. Then say what's a button him, and laugh because away And tell him that the darkest night is just before the day. Don't let it go away, for when the night is over, then God will sprinkle sunshine the next day. The sun is a joyful sight, and so is a smile. So always bright and happy, and smile and sing with me. And when you meet me, it might be far within the limits of my knowledge. We know just how to present the bright and sunny sky. So always have a smile, and don't sweat and tire your pores. Because the Lord's opinion don't coincide with yours. But always keep remember—when comes your parting hand That God has lots of sunshine to spill behind the cloud. —James Whitcomb Riley

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER

Berea, KENTUCKY

OUR PLATFORM.

This paper aims to bring the best reading to every fireside. Reading is a great thing, but it makes a big difference what you read.

The CITIZEN brings, first of all, the news—not every tale of crime or horror, but the important news—the news from Washington and the State capital, from our soldiers in far off islands, from our neighbors everywhere. For the young folks we have a story and a Bible lesson; for housewives, a few new ideas each week which should lighten their labors; for the farmer some valuable hints which will help him to make more from his land and cattle.

We propose to get the best ideas that can be found on all such practical and important matters and pass them around among our readers. The resources of Berea College are not for its students alone. The editor of this paper can at any time step into the largest College library in the State, and he has engaged several of the most distinguished instructors in the College to take charge of special departments in the paper. Those who are visited by THE CITIZEN will know what is going on in the world. Every week it will tell them something worth knowing.

THE CITIZEN is pledged to no party. It is every man's friend. It stands for the things which benefit all—temperance, thrift, kindness, enterprise, and education. And we ask all who believe in these things to subscribe for THE CITIZEN.

After the entry of the second divisionary army into New York, the Congress of that place voted to pay from 20 to 25 percent premium a bridging fee on every advertisement in the newspapers requesting ad persons who had lost money in those schemes to send their names to "Lawyer, P. O. Box 1, N. Y. City." He received an enormous number of names, the copies sauntering that "Lawyer" intended to help them in some way. What he did was to have the lost printed and send it to business in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and other cities, as representing people of a speculative turn of mind, who would be likely to bite at any plausible scheme. What a reflection this is on the gullibility of the average American!

Automobiles are being introduced into the federal departments in New York city. A step in this direction was taken the other day in connection with the custom house department. The old cars which are employed between the custom house and the appraiser's stores have been found inadequate, and it was decided to establish an automobile service to carry invoices to and from the custom house. The introduction of the automobile into the custom house department is said to have greater importance than simply meeting the immediate needs of that one department. The experiment will be watched and tested by the federal authorities, and if found satisfactory, automobiles will also be introduced, it is said, into the postal service.

Farming says a scientific authority has this peculiarity, that it can absorb and supply all knowledge. Not one of the sciences that is isolated, or may be related, to agriculture, botany, rightly understood, is the art of growing better potatoes, beans and corn. Ethnology is what economic science that discusses what things are of use to man and what are injurious. Geology is an analysis of the soils and rocks that underlie the soils for the purpose of making them more available for human use.

Altman, Col., is said to be the highest incorporated town in the country, being 12,000 feet above the sea level. A justice of the peace who had fined a disorderly character $1 and costs said in reply to this prisoner's announcement of appeal: "What?" "Appeal, would you?" asked the astonished court. "You don't come my o' that, now. This is the highest court in the United States, and you can't appeal."

Representatives of nearly every large publishing house in America met in New York the other day and took steps for the formation of a nation-wide publishers' association. It is claimed that books are becoming too cheap, and the object of the projected organization is to maintain prices.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson in the International Series for September 2, 1886—The Seventy-Sixth Part.

Prepared by H. C. Leopoldson
THE LESSON TEXT
Luke 10:1-17.

1. After these things the Lord appointed other apostles, and sent them two and two before His face into every city and place, whether He himself would come.

2. Therefore said He unto them, The harvest truly is great, but the laborers are few; wherefore therefore the Lord has sent unto you laborers into His harvest.

3. Go your ways, behold, I send you forth as lambs among wolves.

4. Carry neither purse, nor scrip, nor shoes, and salute no man by the way.

5. And into whatsoever house ye enter, first say, Peace to this house.

6. And if the son of peace be there, your peace shall rest upon it; if not, it shall turn to you again.

7. And in the same house remain, eating and drinking such things as they give; for the laborer is worthy of his hire. Go not from house to house.

8. And into whatsoever city ye enter and they receive you, eat what things are set before you.

9. And heal the sick that are therein, and say unto them, The kingdom of God is come nigh unto you.

10. But into whatsoever city ye enter, and they receive you not, go your ways out into the streets of the same and say,

11. Even the very dust of your city, which cleaveth on us, we do wipe off against you, notwithstanding the aversion of this, that the kingdom of God is come nigh unto you.

12. And the 70 returned again with joy, saying, Lord, even the devils are subject unto us through Thy name.

13. And He said unto them, I beheld Satan as lightning fall from heaven.

14. Behold, I give unto you power to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy; and nothing shall by any means hurt you.

15. Notwithstanding this I rebuke you, that the spirits are subject unto you, but other rebuke because your names are written in Heaven.

GOLDEN TEXT.—The harvest truly is great, but the laborers are few.—Luke 10:12.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

After the feast of tabernacles Jesus returned to Galilee. He was there but a short time when He prepared to leave on what He knew was His last journey to Jerusalem. He sent messengers into a Samaritan village to prepare a place for Him, but the Samaritans refused to receive Him, so they were compelled to go to another town. On the way He was met by those who wanted to be healed, but were not quite ready, so then He said, "Now is the day of salvation." And He gave the place a healing touch, and for the first time of His life.

THE SEVENTY-SEVEN (Verses 1-12).—The 70 apostles were expected to be with the 12 apostles of Jesus, and through the help of New England 70 others for a special service. They were to travel about in pairs with a desire to do good. Their work was to be a great example to others. The harvest, ecclesiastical, was great, but the laborers few. They were not only to work themselves, but were to pray earnestly that God should prepare the hearts of others that they might go into the same work.

Instructions to the Seventy (Verses 3-11).—For their journey Jesus tells them not to be burdened by unnecessary baggage, carrying only what they could wear. This was because there was need of haste. The same reason applies to the command to "sacrifice no man by the way." We are told that the Jewish sacrifices were elaborately formal, and occupied so much time as to be a serious hindrance when there was reason for haste. When nearest by the conventional "Peace be with thee" they were to reply: "On thee be peace!" and pass on without stopping for further formalities. Expedition was to be their watchword.

When they arrived in a town they were to partake of whatever hospitality it afforded. If they were welcomed, their peace was to be upon the house and in the town in which they staid. They were not to go from house to house, as was the custom of travelers, but were to attend strictly to their mission, that of healing the sick and preaching the coming of the kingdom of God.

When met with opposition they were to retaliate in no way, but simply go on after warning them that the kingdom of God had come near them, and that from them forth the responsibility would be upon themselves. Or its rejection.

Result of Their Labors (Verses 17-19).—The 70 did as instructed and returned to Jesus. Their mission had been highly successful. Even the devils had been subject to them in the name of Jesus. Even Jesus had seen a vision of what He was to accomplish, for He had seen the fall of Satan from his power over the hearts of men, as swift and unmistakable as a lightning flash in the skies.

A Warning to Hesphers—However Jesus feeds He must warn His disciples against the elation coming from success. "Bather," He says, "Be gone, because your names are written in Heaven." Bather because of success would have been a selfish feeling, but relishing because of salvation, while it may at first seem more selfish, keeps the disciple on the watch for the unseen enemies of the soul.

The instructions to the 70 disciples suggest an effective method of work for today. Let there be no show, no self-seeking, and no unnecessary expense.

PROGRESS.

Progress seems to me indispensible as an evidence of being led by the Spirit of God. I need no assurance of the certainty of the promises. I know that a good work begins shall be carried on; but that is no consolation till I feel that it is begun. —John Taylor.

A PENNY.

O Lord, if my will may remain right and firm toward Thee, do with me whatsoever it shall please Thee. For it cannot be anything but good, whatsoever Thou shalt do with me.

$25,000 For Flying Machines.

The American government is to devote $25,000 to the purpose of experimenting with flying machines to ascertain their practicability for use in the army. This is a large sum to use for an experiment, and yet it cannot compare with that spent uselessly by those who experiment with various so-called flying machines.

Take Hostetter's Stomach Bitters and avoid expense and uncertainty. It is made expressly to cure constipation, dyspepsia, and all stomach disorders.

A Skinning Mark.

Brown—Eyes is pale. Graphtone—Wid. should say. I want to see once and ask him to send me two dollars.

It seems I paid "two" a double, and forgot to cross the t. He sent me $100.—Philadelphia Press.

If You Have.

Pimples, Tetter, Eczema or any disease of the skin or Mucous Membranes that can be reached by an outward application, it can be cured by using Palmer's Lotion, the great healer and Skin Curer, which should be kept in every household ready for any emergency. Palmer's Lotion Soap does away of the medicinal properties of this lotion, and should be used in connection with it in preference to any other soap, as it will greatly assist in the cure of skin afflictions.

It is a good soap. Your druggist does not keep it, send his name to Susan Palmer, 374 Pearl Street, New York, and receive free pamphlet of testimonial sample of Lotion or Soap.

Another Chinese Butcher.

"Yes," the witness declared, "I could give further evidence against the prisoner, but as Kip Ling says, 'that's another'."

"Never mind what Kip Ling says," interrupted the magistrate: "The Chinese can testify for himself when his turn comes."—New Jersey Law Journal.

The Boxes of China.

are attempting to solve a gigantic problem, but they are going about it the wrong way and will never succeed. Some people, in their desire to be popular, think that there is a great puzzle on their hands in selecting a location for a home. They will certainly succeed in the wrong way unless they inspect the beautiful farming country on the line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R. in Marinette County, Wisconsin, where the creeps of the best, work plenty, markets, excellent climate, pure, soft water, land sold cheap and on long time.

DR. FAIRCHILD.

Geo. T. Fairchild, LL.D., has corresponded with many of our new students and they will be glad to see his face. Dr. Fairchild is an educator of national reputation. His brother James H. Fairchild, was president of Oberlin College. Dr. Fairchild began his college work as Professor of English Literature in the State Agricultural College of Michigan. Thence he was called to the Presidency of the State Agricultural College of Kansas an institution which attained a great growth and reputation under his management. When the Populists got control of Kansas they turned out the entire Faculty of the Agricultural College and never later did Fairchild return to North. He has just written an important book published by the MacMillan Co. entitled Rural Wealth in Welfare.

For Northern Students.

It is an unusual thing for young people to go southward in quest of an education. But every new discovery, invention, and improvement is, at the first, unusual.

In general it has been true that the greatest advantages were to be found at the North, but it is easy to see how Berea College is an exception.

In the first place it is not really in the South, but only in the true temperate zone, 130 miles from Cincinnati, sixteen hours ride from Cleveland, and in a most delightful climate.

In the second place Berea represents the progressive, and not the old mistletoe South. It was founded by anti-slavery Southerners, and its teachers are nearly all graduates of leading Northern schools. The Berea atmosphere is not distinctly Northern or Southern, but national American, and it is a real gain to a young person from the North to step across "sectional lines" a bit. Our history classes make excursions to the site of Daniel Boone's fort, and the battle field of Richmond, and every student gains something from contact with the varied social life of the South.

The picturesque surroundings are a legitimate attraction, and our classes in Geology, Botany, and other sciences have a field for exploration, which is nowhere exceeded.

The great attraction of Berea, however, is its thorough instruction, secured by well-planned courses of study, and an unusually able body of teachers. Everything at Berea is genuine. We do not undertake to do anything except what we can do well. Hence we have no law or medical department, and no fancy "selectives." The training of specialists we do not undertake. But we offer general education of the best quality, with good apparatus and up-to-date methods.

Berea has not sought for Northern students to any great extent, but more and more are coming this way, and those who have been here have done remarkably well. Our graduates who have gone to the real Universities for professional study have without exception taken their places in the front rank.

MISS ROBINSON, LADY PRINCIPAL.

And a school where one can be respectable, and have all the best advantages, without having or spending too much money, will be a blessing to thousands of families. The natural cost of living is low in this region, and we avoid many of the foolish extravagances of the "gilt-edged" colleges. One hundred dollars a year will enable one to have a year's schooling at Berea, and live in comfort, while three or four hundred dollars would hardly enable one to sneak through a year at one of the more expensive colleges, with deprivations which would take away half the value of the studies.

As these advantages become known there will be increasing numbers who will seek Berea with its "Northern advantages in Southern mountain climate," at a cost which makes it "cheaper than to stay at home."

Now or Never.

Look Before You Leap—But Leap!

My Dear Young Friend:

You are between fifteen and twenty-one years old, and have had some education in the public schools. You have good average brains. And you have a general purpose to be decent and respectable.

Let me ask you a question. Have you any real purpose in life? Do you intend to amount to something, to accomplish something, to be something in the world? Or are you content to drift along and never rise above the average?

Let me tell you these things:

First, it is a terrible mistake, loss, and shame to be only an average person if it is in you to be something better.

Second, if you are resolved to amount to something the first step is education. Grind you ax before you set to work. Find out the lay of the land before you start to run. Whatever you wish to bring to pass, first invest in yourself by getting knowledge and brain-power.

Third, if you are ever going to get further education the time to do so is now. I know hundreds of people who regret the fact that they neglected to secure an education when they stood where you stand to-day. But I have never known one who regretted any education they had acquired, no matter how much it cost them.

I would like to hear from you, and talk over your plans.

With best wishes,

Wm. Goodell Frost.

New Appointment in History.

Berea students will have much to anticipate and enjoy in the instruction and friendship of the newly elected Professor of History and assistant in languages: Rev. Howard M. Jones, A. M.

and we have more respect for the teacher who honestly states in the institute that he is anxious to use the very best methods which can be successfully adopted in his district, but that there are many theories advocated in the institute which he does not find practical.

The great value which comes from the institute is the suggestions thrown out which set the teachers to thinking. They must, in order to defend the methods they are using, perfect them so as to obtain as good results with the same amount of time and effort as the teacher who uses other methods. In this way better results are obtained even through the old methods than would be brought about without the institute. Then the institute puts many ideas and theories to work in every teacher's mind, and there is always a temptation to test some of them when the favorable opportunity presents itself. And many a teacher thus year is doing his work better and easier through methods presented last year or the year before in the institute, which he considered impractical, but the experience of some teacher given in this year's institute has added the necessary faith.

Fellow teachers, let us encourage in every way the teachers' institute, and do everything in our power to enrich next year's institute with the very best suggestions which this year's work can afford. A carefully kept note book would be very helpful in this matter and exceedingly valuable to a teacher in many other ways. Let us remember that our successes and valuable experiences for the present year are things which can be given to every teacher next year and may be more helpful to some fellow teacher who is struggling with the same problems than anything the instructor may have to offer.

This is our chief exhortation now—keep a note book recording your observations and experiences, and begin at once to collect material for next year's institute.

And one thing more—the institutes are about over, but the association meetings are coming. Let us be ready for them.

THE HOME.

Starting a New Home.

We were taking last week about what do we plan for his new home.

Mary has been a less restless as with all her ways he has seen her here, but she is still a little restless. She has been trying to decide where to have her home ever since she was eight years old.

Tell us, Mary, what you have to start on. What did your folks give you to begin with?

"Well, the folks just gave me a start in education. They sent me to Berea two terms one year, and three terms the next, and I reckon it cost them, with what I earned in that time myself, about a hundred dollars. It came a little at a time, and did not hurt them much. But I just set me up. The best of all I know about cooking and making clothes, and taking care of sick folks. I learned at Berea. And that is the largest thing that I shall bring into dad's new house and into good housekeeping."

"Of course, I have always been weaving and sewing things, so that I have a heap of them, and I've an abundance of old such like."

"And after I had been at Berea I taught three schools, so that I had money to buy a cow, and a cabinet organ, and a stove and dishes, and a clock, and the things that make a home homelike. And I have fifty dollars left to use in time of need."

"Well done, Mary. We don't need to wish you joy in your new home. You have it sure."
